

National Energy Board – Open Houses

The National Energy Board (NEB) is a federal agency that regulates pipelines across Canada, including those that cross the British Columbia – Alberta border. You may have heard about the National Energy Board in relation to recently proposed pipeline projects in the region.

Join us at an open house to learn about the NEB's mandate to ensure public safety, environmental protection, pipeline security, and economic efficiency, our role in holding public hearings and opportunities for you to be involved in our processes. A brief presentation will be followed by an opportunity to ask questions.
